

ADVENTURE RACE CLUBNIGHT RESULTS 30 NOVEMBER 2011

Organiser's Comments

It was great fun for Matthew and I thinking of ideas and setting up the race, and afterwards it seemed like everybody enjoyed it. We got several comments about students having too much free time: well it's the end of term! The BEARING must have been the most difficult one, 16 people visited the instruction sheet but only 7 decided to do it, and none of them got it correct. Although, there's always the risk that I set it up wrongly, despite using GPS to make sure! The maze seemed like the biggest hit, only two people didn't attempt it, worth Matthew and David's efforts to set it up whilst I was off printing maps. The cable tie holding the control in the tree made it very difficult to put the dibber in, however it was still possible by tying it tight to the stick and putting it at the right angle! People seemed to get their dibbers confused fairly regularly despite the red tape = red dibber rule, so I gave some credit for punching with the wrong dibber. I think this worked well as an excellent end of term activity for both CUOC and WAOC. Have a great Christmas everyone!!

Scoring

We awarded 10 points for every score control found, and an additional 50 points for a correctly completed activity. Sometimes people just missed one control on an activity, in which case we awarded 10 points for the not-quite-correct activity attempts. For score controls punched with the red dibber instead of the blue we gave 5 points instead of 10. For people back late, they lost 10 points for every minute or part-minute late. For activity controls punched with blue instead of red we gave no credit. For people with the same total score, they were ordered by their score on the (correct) blue dibber, then by score on activities, then by time if required. The maze results are also shown on page 2 (with splits between the first and last control of the maze in seconds), but these did not affect the scoring.
